CELTA Courses in Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL)

INTO University of Gloucestershire is a British Council accredited centre, which offers high-quality courses for adults in English as a Foreign Language (EFL) and the Teaching of English as a Foreign Language (TEFL). We run face to face and online courses leading to the Cambridge CELTA qualification, taught by a highly experienced team of trainers.

The courses

The Cambridge CELTA is an internationally recognised pre-service qualification. The course is designed for those with little or no experience of English language teaching, or for those who have some experience but no formal qualification. We run five-week intensive face to face courses and thirteen-week online courses with no more than 12 candidates on a course. The small group size means that we are able to support everyone fully.

The trainers

Our training team is made up of qualified and highly experienced teachers and trainers in EFL and TEFL. The team includes CELTA Assessors for Cambridge English Language Assessment and academic managers within the centre. All our trainers have experience of teaching overseas and in the UK. All of the team are employed by the centre on a long term basis.

Entry requirements

If you are interested in taking this course, you should:

- be at least 18 years old before the start of the course
- have a formal qualification/standard of education which would allow entry to higher education in your country
- have an awareness of language and a competence in English, both written and spoken, that enables you to undertake the course.

In addition, we must satisfy ourselves that:

- the course is suitable for you in terms of experience, background and career plans
- that you are able to attend/participate in the whole course.

CELTA courses

The CELTA will develop your English language teaching skills, and upon successful completion you will gain a globally recognised qualification.

What is the CELTA course?

The CELTA course will:

- teach you the principles of effective teaching
- provide a range of practical skills for teaching
- give you hands-on experience
- build your confidence.

Who should apply for the CELTA course?

The CELTA course is suitable for you if you:

- are starting a career in English Language Teaching
- have been teaching English language, but don't have a formal qualification
- are looking to have a career break or change
- want to teach ESOL in further, adult or community education in England and Wales.
- Want to offer home tuition to international students

What will I study?

The CELTA course follows the Cambridge syllabus and includes the following areas:

- learners and teachers, and the teaching and learning context
- language analysis and awareness
- language skills (reading, listening, speaking and writing)
- planning and resources for different teaching contexts
- developing teaching skills and professionalism.

Course requirements

You are required to:

- attend/participate in the whole course
- practise teaching classes of adult learners (16+) at a minimum of two levels for a total of six hours

- observe experienced teachers teaching classes of adult learners for a total of six hours
- maintain and submit an assessment file (portfolio) of all course work including all written assignments and materials related to teaching.

Assignments vary in length and style, but no assignment is more than 1,000 words. We give full support and guidance before you submit any written work and we give oral and written feedback, as well as discussing the assessment fully in the progress tutorials. Any written assignment which fails to meet the specified assessment criteria can be resubmitted once. We give detailed criteria for these assignments at the beginning of the course and we refer to the course criteria throughout the course and tutorials.

Certificates and grades of award

The certificate is awarded to those who meet the course requirements and whose performance consistently meets, or exceeds, the criteria in both assessment areas.

A Pass is awarded to students who meet the criteria overall in the teaching practice and in the written assignments.

A Pass B is awarded to students who meet the criteria overall in the written assignments and demonstrate a level of achievement significantly higher than that required in relation to classroom teaching skills.

A Pass A is awarded to students who meet the criteria overall in the written assignments and demonstrate a level of achievement significantly higher than that required in relation to: planning for effective teaching; classroom teaching skills; and awareness of teaching and learning processes.

Fail is awarded to students who fail to meet criteria in some or all assessed components.

Results and certificates are issued by Cambridge (via the Centre) approximately one month after completion of the course.

Course assessment and moderation

Assessment is continuous and integrated. Continuous means that assessment takes place throughout the course, and integrated means that each assessed component contributes to the overall grade. Any one assessed component can cover a number of topics and objectives in the syllabus. In addition, each course is externally moderated by a CELTA assessor who visits the Centre for one day of the course, examines a sample of assessment files and observes teaching practice.

There are two components of assessment. These are teaching practice and written assignments.

1) Teaching practice

By the end of the six hours of assessed teaching practice, you should have demonstrated successful achievement of all teaching practice criteria. With a maximum of 12 candidates, you have more time to prepare fully for teaching practice enabling you to reflect and respond to feedback.

2) Written assignments

There are four written assignments in total. These focus on different aspects of the course as below:

- one assignment (which is divided into sections) involves work on the language system of English
- one assignment involves reflection on classroom teaching and the identification of action points
- two assignments explore aspects of the teaching and learning of English at adult level through a focus on an analysis of learning/teaching materials.

CELTA Face to Face

The Face to Face course is suitable for those who prefer to study during the day and are able to study for a 5 week block.

Course structure

We run a five-week intensive course which consists of approximately 120 contact hours, generally between 9.30am and 5pm. Input sessions on methodology, language awareness and phonology take place in the morning as do classroom observation of experienced teaching staff and tutorials. Assessed teaching practice takes place in the afternoon as do peer observation, teaching practice feedback and teaching practice guidance.

In addition to the syllabus overview outlined above, the extended length of the course allows the timetable to include input sessions on more specialised areas of teaching as well as offering live classroom observation and three individual tutorials.

Areas of learning specialisation include: Young Learners; Business English; Beginners and Advanced Learners; Monolingual classes; Examination classes; and using IT in the classroom.

Teaching practice

Teaching practice (TP) takes place at two levels: Pre-Intermediate and Upper Intermediate. TP begins on day three of the course and is structured in the following way: TP groups are assigned a level and given TP points and materials. These are discussed with the observing tutor the day prior to teaching (TP guidance).

At the beginning of the course, TP points are considerably more detailed to provide you with the necessary support. However as the course progresses, TP points are less detailed. Everyone teaches a range of lesson types (grammar, vocabulary, listening etc) and lengths (from 20-45 minutes).

You are given written and oral feedback on all lessons and are expected to give oral feedback on your peers' lessons using a range of observation tasks provided by the tutors.

Tutorials

In addition to on-going support, we give one-to-one tutorials. Cambridge only requires centres to offer one tutorial, but we find it helpful to offer three.

These take place at the end of weeks two, three and four. Tutorials are to discuss progress and highlight areas to work on as well as to offer any support or advice that you may need.

"Cheltenham is a really great environment to go back to university. I really enjoyed the atmosphere of the campus and classroom. Learning was fun and engaging and all the staff were really friendly. Teaching foreign learners in the classroom was great and the support from our tutors really helped build-up our confidence. The campus and facilities at INTO are also first-class."

CELTA Online

In addition to offering CELTA courses at our INTO Centre, we also offer the option to undertake the course online.

Course structure

The online course runs for 13 weeks and consists of approximately 100 hours of online study and 20 hours face to face in the centre.

The 13 weeks includes an online orientation course which helps you become familiar with the Virtual Learning Environment and also introduces you to the key themes related to the learning and teaching of English.

Studying online involves working through multimedia materials, doing interactive tasks, discussing topics with other course participants and your tutor in forums, and collaborating with other course participants in a virtual classroom. Please note that the materials require participants to be online and cannot be downloaded or worked on off-line. This is for security and to allow progress monitoring.

Teaching practice, feedback, supervised lesson planning and live observation all take place in the Centre.

Teaching practice

Teaching practice has a group format with each candidate teaching for a total of six hours. When you are not teaching, you will observe your colleagues teach (peer observation). Candidates will continue to interact with the online environment during the teaching practice phases. The teaching practice takes place two evenings a week from approximately 6pm to 9pm and starts in the third week of the course.

The timetable allows time for guidance from tutors, preparation and reflection before your next teaching practice session.

Benefits of the online course

The online course offers you:

- flexibility - fit the online materials around your professional and personal commitments
- fewer travel expenses - save time and money by completing components at home instead of travelling to the Centre
- the opportunity to reflect and develop - access online material for a year after the start of your course

Careers and employability

The CELTA course will provide you with a formal qualification for your career in teaching English as a foreign language.

Careers services

Although INTO University of Gloucestershire doesn't act as a recruitment agency, we do regularly receive correspondence regarding job opportunities overseas. As part of the Centre's commitment to training at pre-service level, summer work may also be available at the Centre. There is a careers' talk at the end of the course and candidates are able to use the University's careers management service.

We also offer support and advice after the course including references and CV support.

"After many years of teaching and with numerous qualifications to my name, I have to say that the CELTA course in Cheltenham was the most interesting period of study that I have ever had. The course tutors were brilliant, extremely knowledgeable and inspirational. The course content was excellent and it has been an invaluable qualification for my teaching career."
