

INAUGURAL LECTURES

The University of Gloucestershire is pleased to announce its 2009-10 Inaugural Lecture Programme

Bob Ryan Professor of Financial Management	Who robbed the bank? - the story of a financial disaster	Wednesday 28 October 2009	The Park TC014
Philip Woods Professor in Educational Leadership and Policy	Democracy as a Vocation: Dispersing Leadership, Knowledge Creation and the Practical Pursuit of Educational Ideals	Wednesday 2 December 2009	The Park TC014
Lindsey McEwen Professor in Physical Geography	Learning from past 'Muckle Spates' and 'Great Waters'? Catastrophic floods, environmental changes and community resilience	Tuesday 23 March 2010	The Park TC014
Steve Rayner Professor in Leadership and Diversity in Education	A Pursuit of Truth: Managing Leadership and Diversity in Education	Wednesday 28 April 2010	The Park TC014
Daniella Tilbury Professor of Sustainability	Facing the Future: Leadership and Learning for Sustainability	Thursday 3 June 2010	The Park TC014

Lectures will start at 6pm and will be followed by light refreshments.

Lectures are open to all and are free, but booking is essential.

For further information or to express an interest in attending any of these lectures, please email inaugurallecures@glos.ac.uk.

Programme may be subject to change.